dles, palms, ferns and huckleberries, pink roses. As the guests assembled, Miss Nettie Lukens sang "With All My Heart" and "Until." The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. T. A. Harris who, during the ceremony, also played softly, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was fashioned of soft, ivory satin trimmed with sequins. The tulip veil fell in rippling folds from a coronet of rare old lace and was fastened to her court train with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a lower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. Miss Kathryn Frazer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of turquoise blue satin and silver lame. A short train of tulip, also of turquoise blue, fell from her shoulders. She carried pink roses tied with ribbons to match her gown. Mrs. James Vassar was dame of honor and wore a costume of pink orchid satin and lace over silver cloth, trimmed with crystal beads. She also wore a train to match her gown and carried orange roses tied with yellow tulip.

The bridesmaids wore gowns of crepe chiffon over silver cloth, trimmed with silver ribbon and contrasting colors of hand-made flowers. Miss Thelma Frazer wore yellow; Miss Catherine Harrison, pink; Miss Frances Laird, blue; Miss Ruth Crissmon, lavender; Miss Josephine Dalton, fuchsia; Miss Carrie Dalton, green. All the bridesmaids carried rainbow bouquets of old-fashioned flowers tied with tulip to match their gowns. Miss Vassar, the ringbearer, wore a white satin suit and carried the wedding ring at the heart of a lily.

Malcolm Brown, who was the groom's best man and Bruce Massie, Wallace Verby, Joseph Harris, Forest Gravett, Clement Butter, Conway Saunders, Jr., and Louis Vassar were the groomsman.

Following the ceremony a small reception was tendered the bridal party and the immediate families at "Riverside," the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Frazer, mother of the bride, received in a gown of black charmeuse and lace with jet trimmings and wore a corsage bouquet of orchids. The house was decorated throughout with lighted candles, autumn leaves and crepe, the color scheme being pink and white. The bride and groom left immediately after the reception on a Northern trip and on their return will make their home in New York.

Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bevley, Miss Frances Laird, Miss Judith Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rivers, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Picot, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wedding of Interest.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Eddy, daughter of Mr. J. G. Eddy and Mrs. Eddy, of Morristown, N.J., and Captain McKeith Dunn, formerly of Richmond, now a member of General H. H. Allen, with the American Army of occupation at Corfou, took place Thursday in the former imperial chapel in Corfou, and was followed by a reception in the former imperial palace there. The wedding was one of the most important social events that has taken place during the American occupation in Corfou. The bride is well known in Virginia, having formerly visited in Petersburg as the guest of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton. She has also spent much of her time in Baltimore, as a guest of Miss Gladys Langford, now Mrs. Edward Hartman, and has visited Mrs. Robertson at Colinton. The bride was accompanied several weeks ago to Germany by her father and her brothers, J. M. Eddy and Joseph Eddy.

Juniors Entertained.

The seniors of the Collegiate School for Girls gave their annual party to the juniors yesterday. This year it was in the form of a bite at the home of Miss Mary Reed, near Bon Air. Some of the teachers and girls went in automobiles and others walked. A sumptuous meal was served and outdoor amusements enjoyed.

Shepherd-Winston.

A pretty wedding of the past week was that of Miss Martha Louise Winston,

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Even the popularity of the one-piece gown has not completely sent the separate skirt into fashion's discard. Indeed, this season shows the separate skirt very much in evidence.

The individuality and loveliness of the new blouses with their long waistlines is partly responsible for this. Then, too, the separate skirt is developed into so many artistic modes that often when worn with elaborate blouses it looks like a costume.

Sports skirts claim the bigger part of these separate gowns. They are often worn with smart blouses under the long coat. The satin-striped jersey-wool crepe shows how effectively the pleated and plain models may be combined.

Skirt, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spiller Winston, and Dr. James Leftwich Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Leftwich Shepherd, which took place Wednesday, at 6 o'clock in the bride's home, 209 West Grace Street. Dr. J. B. Aubrey Williams was the officiating minister. The house was decorated with cathedral canopies and pink roses, palms and Southern smilax, and the music was rendered by James Womble. Miss Mary Luckland, Miss Josephine Winston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Bullington, Miss Virginia Lee Cox and Miss Mary Shepherd. There were two little flower girls, Landis Winston, sister of the bride, and Frances Bullington. Clyde Shepherd was best man. Other attendants of the groom were Dr. Whitney Godwin, Newton Shepherd, Dr. George Rice and Russell Ferguson.

The bride was given away by her father and wore soft white satin, a tulip veil fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of tulips of the valley and pale pink sweetbriar roses. The main of her hair wore French blue Georgette and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids wore orchid Georgette dresses and carried arm bouquets of orchids and snapdragons, tied with orchid colored ribbons. The little flower girls wore quaint dresses of blue organdie and pale bonnets, and carried rosebuds. A reception followed the ceremony. The bride and groom left later for a Northern honeymoon.

tulle hid the delicate bodice, that swung from the waist of each arch, lighted candles, trailing cedar, ferns and yellow and white dahlias completed the beauty of the scene.

Just before the ceremony Miss L. Blanche Thomas, of Richmond, accompanied by the orchestra, sang "At Downtime" and "The Sweetest Rose." The Rev. Edward C. Walker, minister of the First Methodist Church, played for the processional and Mendelssohn's "for the recessional."

The service was read by Rev. Peter Hardy, a former pastor of the bride.

Preceding the bridal party, little Misses Virginia Drewry, of Finlow, W. Va., and Margaret Woodward, of Norfolk, dressed in apricot organdie, entered the aisle leading to the altar.

The bridegroom entered alternately from each side, crowned in orange and peach-colored taffeta with bountiful overdrapes of tulip, fastened in silver and velvet ribbons caught with hand-made flowers.

At the center aisle by a greensward, the bridegroom stood on the lower elevation between the arches that framed the bridesmaids. The
